OUR CIRCULATION. We mean to keep the following paragraph stan ding for the benefit of all whom it may concern: ADVERTI-ING. - We would commend the following facts to the attention of the advertising community The "Wilmington Journal" circulates upwards of ELE-VEN HUNDRED COPIES weekly. Its circulation in the town of Wilmington is as large as that of any other paper published in the place. We would further state that its circulation in the counties which trade to this place is THREE TIMES as large as that of any other paper publis ed in North Carolina, and that its list is daily increasing. We say, therefore, without the fear of contradictio that it is t'e best vehicle for advertising which the people of Wilmington can select. One other observation We think, that although a large majority of the readers of the "Journal" are Democrats, still THEY occasionally do a little trading, as well as the readers of the whig papers. We have written the above merely for the infor mation of those who are most deeply interested -business men f all professions and all political creeds-

APPROVED March 1, 1847. LETTER FROM GEORGIA TO MASSA-

CHUSETTS. NO. I DEAR SISTER MASS:

Read this letter, attentively, patiently, and candidly; and when you shall have read it, place it among your archives, where History may find it, when Abolitionism, of which you are the mother, and the chief supporter, shall have accomplished its now undisguised purpose. In addressing you, I shall endeavor to observe the respect due to an elder sister; but, at the same time, I must guard you against confounding truths which prove you to be entitled to no respect at all, with a breach of courtesy. Certainly, after the unsparing and unprovoked abuse which you have heaped upon me and my neighboring sisters for many years, I might be pardoned for the most bitter recriminations; but if I were not deterred from them by self-respect, and the dread that I have of being thought like you in any respect, I should certainly forbear them now that I am about to give to the world so much of your history as involves my interests, and the points of difference between us; tor if you be not invulnerable, this will inflict a wound upon you, ly applicable to your neighbors, who have imbibed your principles. To such I have a For repairing and enlarging barracks, quar- caution, but no apology to offer: the caution is, that they avoid the common fault of proselvtes, which is to take to themselves an entitle them to an over share of its honors. I have often seen my children weep over these wretched victims of Yankes avarice, while yours drove their trades, with all that same self-sufficiency, pertness, humor-and disgusting suppleness, which makes the character of your Pellars at the present day. But if they be guilty, they who never owned a slave ship of sailed on board of one-they who never enslaved a freeman-they to whom the slave rushed with joy from the cruelties of your sons-they who would not look into the floating dungeons; from which your boys daily drew their famished dead, for many long weeks—in mercy's name, where do you stand? This was a direct approach to the seat of your sensibilities, and of course you became desperate. You called upon us all to unite with you in resisting her exactions.— The other sisters responded promptly to the call; but what was I to do? I was very young, and very weak. Father OGLETHORPE had with difficulty saved my life from the Spanish sword. My mother had for a long time, as I have intimated, kept me poor, by confining me to the silk business, instead of letting me choose my own occupation. I was surrounded by Indian tribes, numerous and warlike. Your importations of "flesh and blood" had by this time increased upon me to rather an alarming extent-and of course I was in no situation to throw off parental authority and meet the inevitable consequences. Withal, I was just beginning to gain health & strength. My affairs were intrusted to the supervision of James WRIGHT, a most amiable, excellent, prudent man, who left me no ground for complaint. As for the tax, it did not hurt me : for he plain reason that I had little or nothing to be taxed. As for tea, not one in a hundred of my children ever used it; and most of them, I believe, had never seen it. To espouse your cause under these circumstances, was, it seemel to me, to sacrifice everything and to gain nothing. And yet to stand by and see you flogged into submission, to unrighteous exactions, was abhorrent to every principle of my nature. I did what you never do-I sacrificed interest to principle and joined you-I say I joined you: for you were the only one of the family who had come to blows with our mother. The rest of us were foolishly hoping for a compromise : but you took the better course. Convinced of the justness of your cause, you resisted oppression at its first approach; and you did well, as the event clearly proved. In cases of doubtful right, compromises are excellent things; but where there is flagrant injustice, cruelty and extortion on the one hand, and clear right on the other, a compromise is no better than a reward to iniquity for its daring, and a promise to double the premium at short payment, when it becomes doubly villanous. He is a fool, or a suicide, or both, who tries to appease the bloodhound by giving him a lap of his blood; and man bereft of every moral sense, is but a bloodhound with human sagacity. You did right, therefore, sister Mass, in resisting oppression in limone, tho' it seemed a desperate adventure at the time. -My support of you, ruined me for a time We conquered, and having severed the connexion with our unnatural parent, we were now all, by common consent, at liberty to manage our own affairs in our own way.-Not one of the sisters dreamed that she had any right to intermeddle with the domestic concerns of another. Withal, these were days of decency and courtesy, which protected each from the intrusions of another. That such was the general understanding at that time, was proved beyond question by the fact, that when the social compact was formed two of the sisters refused for a time to unite in it; and during this time they were considered by all as entirely independent of the rest. This was "the Government of the ford Convention, at the City of Washington People," as we learn from high judicial authority, which three millions could not enforce upon four hundred and sixty thousand, and impressments," (so our military requisiwhich eleven communities could not enforce tions were called,) but modestly to request nal authority, we agreed to band together for that this darling Triplet might do a moneythe common defence and general welfare. You supposed there would be a perpetual tendency in the sisterhood to fly from each other, and you would have made the Deputies " whippers in" to us. Indeed, I think I would hazard nothing in saving, that you would gladly have adopted the Old Lady's system of government which we had just thrown off .-Nor have I a scruple of blame to attach to you on this account. They were strange views, to be sure, under the circumstances. and in point of consistency, in perfect keeping | ned without electing judges of the supreme with your views ever since; but then they were sincere, and therefore they received from me the most liberal indulgence—an indulgence which I would gladly have repeated, had you afforded me an opportunity like favorable, within the last fifty years.

On the other hand, I believe that the ties of friendship, kindred, and common interest would keep us together in love and harmony without the aid of a driver's thong-our children intermingling and intermarrying, I could not conceive how we were ever to fall out .-Nor could I see, nor can I vet see, the propriety of keeping any sister in the family, who Those wishing to obtain Prize Tickets, are invited might wish to leave it. My dread was of the to apply personally, or by letter, to the subscriber Deputies. Power I knew to be self-sustaining and self-increasing. All history had proved this. My plan, therefore, was to clothe the Deputies with just power enough to discharge the trust confided to them, and no more. My plan prevailed; and one would suppose-or rather, one would have supposed, that you possessed modesty enough to await the decisions of experience, upon the questions of difference between you, and a large majority of the family. Not you, however. That your judgment was not considered authoritative. eems to have been considered an ample apology to yourself, at least, for laying aside all modesty, all courtesy, all decency, and all consistency, when you stept into the confederacy. As you could not have the articles cut to suit your patterns, you determined to stretch them to it; and accordingly you have been for sixty years, engaged in the singular employment of fitting your rejected suit to the Deputies. and then abusing them most unmercifully, for wearing it-or to speak without a figure- 50 you have ever been laboring to increase the powers of the Deputies, by construction; and yet ever complaining, most bitterly, of their abuse of power. Counting out WASHINGTON'S administration, about which there is a sanctity, which none of us dare invade, you have quarreled with every other save one; and that one every body else quarreled with. It was but recently your son John cried out, "we have been under slave domination for forty years:" and yet, you are as ripe for increasing that power as ever you were. And here lies the secret of your desperate abolition efforts. That you have not half the sympathy for the slave that I have, I will prove to the satisfaction of every unprejudiced mind. I could excuse your zeal in behalf of freedom, if you had wit enough to conceal its true object .-But so palpably does selfishness-a yearning for the loaves and fishes, evince itself, in all your mock philanthrophy, that to credit you for the virtue which you feign, would be to discredit myself for common sense. But let me not anticipate.

Accordingly she issued her orders that we should all be taxed. This was a direct approach to the seat the Revolution as an apology for your unnatural preference. Indeed those horrors were the results of misdirected zeal in a really good cause; like your burning down Catholic Churches to advance the cause of Religion. France was your ally, England was your enemy. The first, struggled for the people; the last struggled for kings. The one, light ed the torch of freedom at your own altars the other, at the same altars, mingled your blood with your sacrifices. The one was a reformer; the other was an intermedder. And vet you took sides with the latter! I could not follow you, and here we split again. In that contest both trampled upon our rights, but it was for the last to seize our children & make them lift the sword against their benefactors. Our children, did I say? Not ours, but yours. Not one did I loose by this daring assumption; but you lost many. For this and many other insults and wrongs, we declared war against Britain. And where were you now? There were your own sons really " bondsmen" in the hands of " man-stealers;" and there was your property confiscated by their " masters." You, of course, warmly espoused the war which was declared to punish these outrages; did you not? Not you: you opposed it, you denounced it, and you interposed every barrier to its success that you possibly could. With one eve upon Bunker's do this? Is it because they believe what Hill, and the other upon Yorktown, you lauded George the Third, and calumniated MADIson; and when you found that all your efforts to arrest the war proved abortive, you sent one portion of your children to plot a dissolution of the Union, and another to your waterfalls to supplant your beloved friend in manufactures. The war ended, we next find you making your conges to that much abused government and humbly soliciting a little protection for those generous sons of yours, who had magnanimously stept forward, in the time of distress, to supply the country with clothing .-You told us that if the government which you had so kindly befriended, would only fling its it is alledged, inadequate means to defend protecting arms about them for a few years, himself against the attacks of Santa Anna, and you would release it from further obligation, throw yourself, like other people, upon your own resources, and make a wonderful return for the boon extended to them. The favor granted. you returned to your abuse—the sow that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire.

The time expired, you again appeared fore the Deputies, not to verify your former promises, but to ask for a little ircrease of protection. This time you told many inconsistent stories; but as they were matters of course. little was thought of them; and you were again favored. In a few years you were back again, supported by sisty Conny and sister Rhody, who had got a sip of the pap upon which you fattened so lustily, and who had become as ravenous of it as yourself. There is one thing in the Federal party which really, as an American citizen, gives is a great deal of mortification. It is the disosition which we find amongst the leaders of that party to slander and misrepresent the President of the United States, simply and sojely because he is a Democrat, even although those slanders and misrepresentations may have the effect of lowering the character of the whole republic in the estimation of the civilithat there are men in that party who, if by so hesitate to degrade the American name in the in their public speeches, through the press, and quently one in which an honest and a just nation would not engage. We believe, however, that a large majority of the people of this country well understand the motives which influence these men in the unpatriotic course which they are pursuing. The most recent of these mis erable slanders which has met our ears is tha which charges the administration with placing Gen. Taylor in his present position, with, as this for the purpose of ruining him-destroying the reputation which he has already earned. Now, in the first place, the event has shewn that Gen. Taylor has been able to stand his ground; but in the second place, the administration had, in reality, nothing to do with his being at Saltillo, or rather Agua Nueva, with such a small number of troops. Gen. Scott is the commander-in-chief, and he it is who has the disposition of the troops in the field. Had any mishap come upon Gen. Taylor, the blame would have fallen upon Gen. Scott, who withdrew all the regulars from Gen. Taylor's command, and who thus left him so weak-handed. These are facts, as the two letters which we publish below will demonstrate, and yet we hear the Federalists endeavoring to make the people believe that the fault, if any there is, lies at the door of Gen. Scott was invested with the sole guidance

OFA correspondent of an exchange paper The fortifications at the Brazos, with the force of artillery and persons in the quartermaster's employ, which can be raised as a garrison, is sufficient to drive back a command of at least 2500 or 3000 Mexicans. The work, which may be technically termed a continued line, encloses all the quartermaster's and commissary's stores in depot The parapet is formed of barrels of damaged commissary stores, with sand bags for the superior slope; the sand from a ditch in front, thrown up against the barrels, forms the exterior slope. The armament of the fort consists of four pieces of artillery—two twelve and two-six-pounders, in barbette—which sweep the foot of and across their fires upon the level plain over which the enemy would be compelled to advance, and about 300 muskets to line the parapet. This was thrown up when an attack was daily expected. Nothing having reached us from Gen. Taylor for many days, we believed him surrounded, as was reported, and gave some degree of credit to the rumor of the advance of a large force upon our depots. After waiting three or four days, anxiously expecting the approach of the enemy, we received the glorious news above—understood, of course, that the battle of Brazos Santiago was "no go;" and when I sailed, the artillery of Fort Harney, instead of mowing down the Mexicans, was pealing forth a salute in honor of old "Rough and Ready

000 men and twenty-six pieces of artillery, lost five of his positions, three pieces of artillery and two flags, I have determined to go back to Agua Nueva to provide myself with provisions, not having a single biscuit or a grain of rice left. Thanks to the position occupied by the enemy, he has not been com-pletely beaten, but he left on the field about 2.000 dead. Both armies have been cut to pieces, but the trophies of war will give you an idea on which side has been the advantage. We have struggled with hunger and thirst di ring forty hours, and if we can provide our selves with provisions we will go again to charge the enemy. The soldiers under my command have done their duty and covered the honor of the Mexican nation with glory The enemy has seen that neither his advantageous position, nor the broken nature of the ground, nor the rigor of the season (for it has been raining during the action) could prevent the terrible charge with the bayonet, which left him terrified.

As Wool fell back Gen. Taylor advanced with fresh troops and repelled the Mexicans with great slaughter! This charge decided the battle, which was not again renewed. We understand from reliable authority that there are letters in town from Mexicans stating that Santa Anna is in full retreat to San Luis Potosi. The letters also state that he held a consultation with his principal officers after the first day's engagement, and that a retreat was then streneously advocated. Before the battle commenced, the Mexicans firmly believed that Gen. Taylor would retire before their vastly superior numbers, and that in his retreat they could supply themselves with provisions, of which they were much in need, almost starving. Finding the Americans obstinate and determined to fight for their eatables with the ferociousness of bull dogs, they despaired of getting a dinner from them and deemed it prudent to retire.

The above contains the substance of the news in the New Orleans papers, up to the 25th. Should any further arrive before we go to press, we shall give it.

Day before yesterday the order was given to move from Anton Lizardo to this place. This occupied most of the day. About 4 o'clock, P. M., the 1st division (Gen. Worth's) had taken its place in the surf boats. The gun boats ran in close to the shore, about three miles below the city, and anchored. One of the small_naval steamers ran slong the shore and fired a gun at the place of landing as a feeler, to ascertain if there were con cealed batteries or troops to oppose the landing Nothing was revealed and the order was given to advance. The surt boats, about fifty in number, each containing from eighty to a hundred men, moved off in gallant style and in the most perfect order. Temperance in Sweden.-There is not more orderly, honest temperate people than the Swedes, and yet with only 3,000,000 of inhabitants, they have 160,000 distilleries, which furnish 40,000,000 gallons of liquor, most of which they export to other countries.

The secret of this is very obvious. The doctor is seldom called till a person is quite sick, and then it takes some time to recover; thus increasing the expense. There is, perhaps, no disease with which our country is affected, which sweeps off annually so many victims as that fell destroyer of the human race--Consumption. Day after day, year after year, the insatiate monster hurries to the pertals of the cold and silent tomb fresh added victims to its conquest. No walk of life is sacred from its blighting influence. No age is exempt from its death-dealing shafts. The old, the middle-aged and the young, all alike, are food for this common enemy of mankind. The white-haired patriarch, whose life of temperance has rendered his system impervious to the attacks of other ills, and who good deeds prepared him for the enjoyment of life's calm evening, finds consumption fastening its fangs upon his vitals, and tearing him from a world ever bright to minds which look complacently on days well spent. Is there no help for the afflicted ? No preventive of the dangers which beset us in our changeable and fickle clime ? We think there may be. And if the allegations of those who are at least entitled to veracity, may be believed, there is a pre ventive and a remedy.

THUMBAY, 1st and 1847. STILL LATER

The Southern mail has just arrived, bring ing us New Orleans dates up to the 26th ult. There is not much of imperiance by this arriwhat heavy, compared with the month. It is supposed by the agent sale of the raw material, that there is val more than what was known before. We give the most important items.

The schr. Southerner arrived on the 25th at New Orleans from the Brazos, where she left on the 19th March. Mr. Crittenden, bearer of despatches, came passenger, and reports that Santa Anna's infantry had already disbanded, and that he was in full retreat for San Luis Potosi. Gen. Taylor was not only in possession of Saltillo and Buena Vista, but was quietly encamped at Agua Neuva—just varied by the Morienne Li in believe to be owing to the fact that a number of distilleries have gone into operation in the country, which has prevented a large portion of the raw material from reaching this market that would otherwise have been received here. Besides the monthly pay, as above stated, one ration per day is allowed every soldier, which is amply sufficient for his subslatence; also a large supply of comfortable and genteel clothing. Good quarters and fuel are at all times furnished; and every attention will be paid to making those ment who may enlist, and are determined to serve their country in good faith, comfortable and com in their situation. The best medical attendance is always provided for the sick soldier; and no deduction of pay is made during the period he is unable to perform his duty. Should the soldier be disabled in the line of his duty, the laws provide a pension for him.

By the above it is seen that the pay and allowances are respectable, and that, with prudence and economy, the monthly pay of the soldier may be laid up—as every thing requisite for his comfort and convenience is furnished by the Government, including his sugar and coffee. The prudent sol dier, therefore, may readily save from $420 to $1,-020 during his enlistment of Five years; and at the expiration of that term he can, if he chooses, purchase a small form in any of the western States, and there settle himse'f comfortably, on his own land, for the rest of his life.

The sum of two dollars will be paid to any cire tzen, non-commissioned officer or soldier, who shall bring to the rendezvous an able-bodied recruit, who shall be regularly enlisted. The citizen should present his recruit to the Lieutenant or Captain, and not to the Recruiting Sergeant.

Two steady young men, for Recruiting Sergeants, are wanted immediately, for which the usual rates, $13 per month, will be allowed, with clothing and rations These Sergeants will undoubtedly be retained on the recruiting service to the end of their enlistment, should they desire it. Two musicians, (a Drummer and a Fifer,) are also wanted for the same service ; see table of pay Steady young men who can bring good recon mendations for honesty and sobriety, will do well to call without delay. E. CANTWELL, Lieut. U. S. Army; Recruiting Officer.

I think of thee, when evening Is mantling in the west. And every flitting form of cloud, In gorgeous hues is drest.

When Phobus darkness chasing,

Seems to smile in mirth.

I think of thee, when night Spreads darkness o'er the land. And clothes all things in sable hue, With such a lavish hand.

I think of thee, when Spring Is decked in May's sweet flowers, And think thee fairer than all they -That bloom in Flora's bowers.

I think of thee, when Summer Makes " field and forest " fair ; But never think it has such charms As can with thine compare.

When Autumn brings the ripe red fruit, Upon each loaded tree, And bird, and beast, and man are glad, Then do I think of thee.

When Winter sternly frowns, And his cold aspect freezes, E'en then, fair one, I think of thee, The thought fond memory pleases.

I think of thee, in every hour, 'Mid pleasure or 'mid pain, Thy name a cherished souvenir, I'll ne'er forget again.

And I'll still foudly think of thee, At morning's dawn and even : And if on earth we meet no more, Oh! may we meet in heaven.

About two months ago I become acquainted with the circumstances of the case. The child, who is now aged four years, was one-complete mass of disease, and incapable of using any of her limbs. THE preceding figure is given to represent the INSENSIBLE PERSPIRATION. It is the great Evacuation for the impurities of the body. It will be noticed that a thick cloudy mist issues from all p lints of the survace, which indicates that this perspiration it we uninterruptedly when we are in ealth, but ceases when we are sick—Life rannot be sustained without it. It is thrown is, Ovens, Plain and vered Spiders, Plying off from the blood and other juices of the body, and dispose by this mean; of nearly all the impurities within us. The language of Scripture is, "in the BLOOD is the laife." If it ever becomes impure, it may be traced directly to the stoppage of the mensible Perspiration. Thus we see, all that is necessary when the blood is stagnant, or infected, is to open the pores, and it relieves itself from all impurity INSTANTLY. Is own heat and vitality are sufficient, without one particle of medicine, except to open the pores upon the surface. Thus we see the following so much internal remedies. All practitioners, however, direct their efforts to restore the Inthe for yof taking so much internal remedies. This is none other than the used up particles of the blood, and other infers giving place to the new and freshers. To check this, therefore, is to retain in the system five-eights of all the virulent matter that nature demands the above the body.

By a sud-en transition from heat togold, the pores are stopped the perspiration ceases, and disease begins at once to develope itself. Hence, a stoppage of this flow Shirtings and Sheeting. Nine-tenths of the world die from disease induced by a stoppage of the In-

Would you give physic to unstop the peres? Or would you apply something that would do this upon the surface, where the clogging actually is?
